ingalls Explains His Position on the Force Bill and Closure Rule-He Op poses Both Measures Because They Were Revolutionary and Unconstitu-

Washington, Feb. 5.- In the Senate this morning, Ingalls, rising to a personal statement, said that he had been absent from the Senate during the past two weeks, in which interval action had been taken on the closure rule and on the election bill. His attitude on both of these questions had been the subject of comment, of course, and of animadversion. On the day of his departure, after consultation with Allison, on whom he had been accustomed to lean in every hour of need, he had left with Casey (who had charge of the pairs of the absentees) a note saying: "I should vote against the proposed change of rules. and should vote for the motion to proceed to the consideration of any other than the election bill, and am paired accordingly with Senator Allison, who is at liberty to vote to make a quorum He had been opposed, he said, unalterably opposed, to the adoption of closure for many reasons, sufficient and satisfactory to himself.
